LIVE PC.....LEAD PC

Over Twenty Years And Still Connecting

What's Up With Maddy Shear (14)

Maddy Shear (14) has been in Park City since April of 2003. Born and raised to age 10 in the Bronx, she grew up and attended college in Maryland, lived in Rhode Island for half dozen and Massachusetts for a full dozen years prior to the move west. Maddy and husband, Jon relocated for his job as Chief Investment Officer for the University of Utah and their love for hiking made it an easier choice.

Having worked as Vice President of Marketing for Parker Brothers division of Hasbro for 11 years, and ready for a change, Maddy got involved with their Jewish Community Center in Westboro MA serving on the Board and then as board President for three years. This work and her move to Park City inspired her to transition into the world of nonprofits. "I wanted to work at something which made my heart feel good," she explained.

Motivated by Sally Elliot's work in the community, Maddy applied for Leadership Class XIV. "I wanted to become an active participant/leader in our community." Although she jokingly says her favorite memory from leadership was that classmate Mike McCarthy was older than her, (hugs to Mike from Maddy!), she also made some great connections.

"During leadership I told the group I wanted to move into nonprofit work professionally but couldn't figure out in what way. Trisha Worthington, then Executive Director for the Park City Community Foundation was in my class. Shortly after Leadership ended I met Trisha for coffee to pick her brain and she suggested I come interview with her and Katie Wright (15) for a 6 month job."

The Foundation, in collaboration with the city was, launching Parkcitygreen.org and Maddy took the job presenting the website all over town to more than 700 people -- at Rotary, Real Estate Sales meetings, kids camps etc. to encourage them to measure and manage their carbon footprint, using the website as a tool. That was followed up with an idea from Katy Wang (16) to launch a video contest called 'How do you keep Park City Green?' and Maddy stayed on for an additional two months leading that process. "We received amazing videos and showed the three finalists at the Park City Film Makers Showcase."

Trisha and the Foundation wanted to launch the Nonprofit Professional Roundtable and asked if Maddy was interested in facilitating it. "Right in my sweet spot! I was thrilled to do it and I still am -- six plus years later and the Roundtable is a much loved forum for community nonprofits. On behalf of the Park City Community Foundation, annually I plan and facilitate four Executive Director Roundtables, four Open Roundtables, ((for all nonprofit staff) and the newly launched Board Roundtable. I choose timely, valuable bubbling-up topics and lead a candid discussion where participants inspire and learn from each other. The networking piece is so valuable and many great collaborations have resulted. I call it magic space."

"As I think back to my time in Leadership trying to decide what type of nonprofit work to pursue, the nonprofit work I truly love, found me. First the Roundtable which is joy ... then Roundtable attendees asking if I would facilitate their board retreats, help with strategic planning, and by the way do you do Executive Coaching? Additionally this year I am doing four Roundtables for the Utah Nonprofits Association in Salt Lake City. And yes it all makes my heart feel good."

Passionate About Work & Play

Maddy also chaired the Summit County Library Board for 2 years, "This was pure joy for an avid reader." Other than being an avid reader, Maddy and husband Jon, love to hike and travel. "I hike a lot locally with friends it's my exercise, it's social and it keeps me sane." For the most part, Maddy and Jon are now 'empty-nesters' since older daughter Alissa, recently graduated from Occidental College in Los Angeles and Emma is currently a student at Colorado State University in Ft. Collins.

Loving Park City

Maddy is full of gratitude for her family and for the opportunity to live in Park City. "I have never lived anywhere as special and with this strong feeling of community like Park City. My nonprofit colleagues and the work they do hand-in-hand with their supporters leaves me in awe. My work truly is my passion -- working with and helping nonprofits soar -- I can't believe that it's my job"

Maddy loves being out in Park City and almost always seeing someone she knows. "My kids tease me all the time...'Mom you know everyone!' Jon and I just got back from vacation, backpacking in Olympic National Park and going back to Victoria British Columbia where he proposed 35 years ago. Who do I see as I am sitting on a bench in Victoria? Nancy Michalko (16). My kids enjoyed that story!"

Thanks to Maddy for all your efforts in helping our local nonprofits to do such great work in our community.

GRADUATION/DOWNLOAD PARTY FOR CLASS 23

LPCA invites all alumni to join us for our fifth annual Graduation/Download Party to celebrate Class 23, their project and City Tour.

When: Wednesday, September 27 at 6 pm
Where: Home of Christina Miller;

Class 21 Legacy

Class 21's project, "Park City Neighbor Day" takes place again Saturday, September 23. PCND is a dedicated day for neighbors to connect and get to know each other better through "micro-events" — no big fests or centralized event (who can deal with another big thing??), just a casual coffee on the porch, hike in the 'hood, or something else that allows people to reach out to a neighbor whom they don't know well (or might like to know better).

If you have a new neighbor, part-time resident, or visitor living near you, PCND is a great excuse to

What to bring: BYOB along with an appetizer or dessert to share.

Spouses are welcome!

Alumni News

Congrats to Dar Hendrickson (23) for being recognized as BEST YOUTH SKI COACH.

It was great to see Dick Pick (16) exhibiting his phenomenal photography at the 2017 Kimball Art Festival.

Congrats to Emily Fisher (19), the new Executive Director of the Youth Sports Alliance.

Congrats to Andrew Leatham (20), recently named the Park City Officer Of The Year by the Park City Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks, an honor given to a member of the Police Department and members of other emergency service agencies.

Myles Announces.....

Park City Rotary Club just honored 2 of our alumni with Volunteer Citizen of the Year awards. Very prestigious!

Wendy Fisher (1), executive director of Utah Open Lands, and Cheryl Fox (4), ED of Summit Land Conservancy (Class 4). I'm so proud of these great women!

Sad News To Share

We send our sympathies to the family, friends and colleagues of Irene Cho (13) who recently passed away.
